Helping Companies Enhance Security, Productivity, and Compliance with Touchless Realtime Session Security

In traditional desktop authentication and access management, continued security of the session relies on activity-based timeouts and the user's discipline in locking the session on a walk-away. This results in numerous re-authentications throughout the day, which introduces authentication fatigue and undermines the security of the authentication as exhausted users push back on strong passwords, multi-factor authentications, and shorter lockout timers. Hummingbirds AI's Guacamole solution helps enhance security and improve the user experience by providing continuous, automated, and touchless session protection using facial recognition. Guacamole protects on screen content from unauthorized access and reduces authentication fatigue by eliminating the need for frequent manual password entry. Hummingbirds AI is committed to privacy-first solutions. Their Guacamole software does not communicate with the cloud, and facial registration data and information is processed locally on the device using secure encryption protocols, with no images being stored or transmitted over the network.

> The Guacamole product, which is described as the first Continuous Video-Based Verification Platform (CVIV) addresses the most common entry point of systemic risk into complex digital systems, the human interface. Their facial recognition AI strengthens authentication by making it a real-time, persistent process focused on the ability to constantly verify the identity of the person using a device connected to a complex system."
